

We ask for a pretty good description of what is needed and the duties they will perform. There is space for about 200 words. Enough for a small paragraph, or even bullet points would be great. Try not to think that you are paying for each word, like in a classified ad, but also be careful in your descriptions. Make every word count.

Information about who to contact, how to apply, or where the event is happening (physical location or address) is not counted in the description.
